

How fortunate that Stilton Cheesewright drew Bertie Wooster, the red-hot favorite, in the Drones Club annual darts tournament. Had he not he would surely have beaten Bertie to a pulp and buttered the lawn with him. Stilton does not like men trifling with his fiancée Florence Crayes affections. In the event Florence would seem to prefer Percy Gorrings, stepson of L.G. Trotter. What is Aunt Dahlias obsessive interest in the wretched Trotter? Can there be more than one rope of false pearls? Will Jeeves deign to put things right, given that Bertie has grown a moustache of which he disapproves strongly?
